

Summer Honors Classes Begin in City Schools

Honors classes and enrichment workshops in subjects ranging from science to literary analysis are under way for more than 625 of Los Angeles' outstanding high school students.

Superintendent of Schools Jack P. Crowther said the classes are being held at 16 city high schools and are for students who have shown high competence and potential in academic subject areas and in fine arts.

THE HONORS classes deal with advanced material not normally found in the regular school curriculum, said Robert E. Kelly, associate superintendent in charge of secondary schools.

Under the program, now in its eighth year, students meet from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. daily through Wednesday, Aug. 11.

Area students selected to participate in the mathematics seminar at Gardena High School include Robert Cunningham, Beverly Greenleaf, John Junkin, Wai Joung Lee, and Sherry Thorn, all from Carson High, and David Marumoto, Steven Okamura and Mike Powers from Narbonne High School.

Carson Zone Change Studied

A request for a change of zone in the Carson area has been taken under submission for further study by the Regional Planning Commission. Owner Mike Kasino submitted the request for a change from A-1 to R-2 for a 3.6-acre parcel on the northwest corner of 220th and Dolores streets.

Realtors Organize New Political Action Wing

A new political action wing to Robinson, will be sent to was added to the California Real Estate Association's (CREA) late last week when the association's 1,042-member board of directors voted to create a Property Owners Division.

David N. Robinson of Berkeley, CREA president, said the new division will be open to real property owners as "subscribers" for an annual $3 fee.

"Home owners and other real property owners need a source of information to alert them to legislation pending, or being talked about, that will affect them directly," Robinson said.

"Too often the property owner doesn't realize what impact a tax measure, for instance, or a housing bill, will have on him until the state legislature of the Congress is ready to vote on it — and many times not even then, not until the legislation is already in effect. Our Property Owners Division is intended to fill that need."

ACTIVITIES of the Property Owners Division, he added, would be guided by a six-point program:

- To conduct a program of education through press, radio, television, speakers bureaus, etc., to inform citizens of issues and actions affecting real property ownership, and the individual rights of those owners.
- To work toward relieving real estate and property owners from carrying a disproportionate share of the tax load.
- To conduct research and compile statistics concerning real estate and tax problems in California, and help indicate their solution in a way which would eliminate undue hardship on any one segment of our population.
- To work toward and encourage solutions to housing problems through private enterprise rather than through relying heavily on the use of public funds.
- To support legislation and programs aimed at improving sub-standard housing, but which at the time encourage individual enterprise and do not erode individual liberty.
- To keep subscribers alerted concerning legislation and other matters affecting real estate and the property owners through an information service.
